

Benjamin Dhong

About the Designer

Based in San Francisco, Benjamin Dhong is an interior designer who creates quietly luxurious interiors that feel restrained - never overproduced.

Though Benjamin began in the world of finance, he discovered his love of design organically, on a vacation in Italy in 2004. In this inspiring setting he met Martha Angus, who soon after their return became his mentor and entrée into the design profession.

Just two years later Benjamin launched his own interior design firm, which is known for considered interiors that are neither strictly traditional nor entirely minimal. Rooms are intelligent and balanced - a fresh mix of sophisticated colors, textures, and shapes. In Benjamin's opinion, the best environment is a classic interior that has been reinterpreted with a bold fresh eye.

In every project, Benjamin devotes a tremendous attention to detail, such that every element is carefully selected to inspire calm and reflect an eye for all that is chic. More than anything else, Benjamin Dhong Interior Design aims for an elegance that is effortless.

View his work in the slideshow below.
Visit his website at www.benjamindhong.com

DESIGNER TIPS AND INSPIRATION

Benjamin Dhong's Tips:

- 01 Less is more! Don't clutter your home with mediocre pieces just to fill space. I would prefer to see a room with just a single exquisite table and chair.
- 02 It's counterintuitive, but reproductions of antiques are sometimes more expensive than the antiques themselves. Get the real thing.
- 03 Make your own fabulous wallpaper by finding a fabric that you love and then paper-backing it. Fabric walls bring instant warmth and character to a room.
- 04 I always say that the room is not complete until the art is hung. Why not celebrate each wedding anniversary by buying a work of art? In a few years you will have a marvelous art collection that will have grown with you. How wonderful is that?!

